

Information Processing and FASD

A person with FASD has a deficit in the information processing system. They cannot translate knowledge learned in one context and apply it to another context or environment.

Asking an individual with FASD to repeat instructions does not ensure understanding of the instructions.

As an individual with FASD ages, the gap of learning and information processing becomes more apparent.

Normal Processing

FASD Brain Processing

